THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

AF FAIRS of the HEART
By Mrs. Thompson

NEGLECTS SICK WIFE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am heart-broken. I am married and have two children. My husband stays away from home, coming only long enough to eat and sleep. I am good to him, keeping his clothes clean and doing all I can for him. He is a good provider. We have been married 20 years and only in the last year he has neglected me. If we were not for the children I would leave home, but I am sick all the time and unable to support them. Please advise me what to do.

HEART-BROKEN J. B.

Never talk of your sickness and when your husband is around be cheerful in spite of everything. High spirits and no complaints on your part will do much to keep him at home. Since he is the father of your children and a good provider, stop thinking of running away. If you face the future bravely and hopefully I am confident that you will be able to win back the love and companionship of your husband.

WE never know our hearts. The person we despise today may be the one we love tomorrow. When A. H. L. was younger she didn't care for the man she cannot forget now. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is there any way to win back one whose friendship was not appreciated until it was lost? I met a fellow when I was sixteen, went with him a few times, and then I wrote to him most of the time until he went to college about two years ago. All the time he was there I wrote about the way I treated him. He came back, somehow, I didn't care for him and I treated him dreadfully. He seemed to care for me and came back every time I gave him a chance until last summer while I was in school. He came to see me a few times and I treated him so indifferently and went places with other fellows that he quit me. However, he gave me reasons to think he cared for me but couldn't stand the way I treated him. Now I would give anything if I could win him again. Every time I go to his city I have to pass where he works to get to the main part of town, or else walk around the block. Every time I pass he always speaks so friendly and I can scarcely bear to pass his window because I feel so badly about the way I treated him. I've tried to forget him and go with other fellows but I can't do it. I have a friend who knows him and this friend tells me he often asks about me. Would it be all right to tell this person how I feel about it? I feel sure he still cares for me but is too proud to come back now. Or would it be all right for me to write and tell him how I feel about the way I treated him? It has been nearly eight months since we quit. Please don't tell me there is nothing to do but forget him, because I can't do that.

A. H. L.

There is no reason why you should forget him, A. H. L. He probably has forgotten your rudeness, of long indifference, and it to you a friendly. Allow your friend to bring you together in some conventional way, and just "be yourself."

HIS PARENTS DISAPPROVE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of twenty and have a boy friend who says he loves me more than anybody in all the world. I love him too and am not ashamed to say so. Some time ago he asked me to marry him, but I did not give him my answer. He says he will make me happy the rest of my life and I will never have to work unless I want to. I believe he will be true and keep his promise, he is the kind of fellow to depend on. Since he asked me to marry him his parents have been raving mad. They will not speak to me now, but I don't care a cent for the way they feel. My father and mother both speak well of him. Do you think his parents will turn him against me?

L. M.

If you are fair and tolerant toward the young man's parents, he will probably admire you all the more and marry you in spite of the way they feel. It is a mistake to think that it doesn't matter how they feel. If you and your husband want real happiness you will also want harmony with his parents as well as yours. Be sweet and generous in your attitude toward them whatever happens.

THE PROOF OF LOVE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young man about twenty-eight for almost a year. I am deeply in love with him. He is very sentimental and is jealous of my going out with other men. I do not go out with other men, though he always accuses me of it. He claims that he loves me, but he doesn't act the part. Do you think a man knows because he's jealous that he loves a woman? Last Christmas he didn't send me a gift. That's a long time ago now and I didn't really care about getting the present. But when my friends asked me what I received from him I was so ashamed to admit I received nothing. Of course he has lots of expenses, but he works steadily and earns a good salary. Don't you think that if he loved me he would have given me something at Christmas time? UNHAPPY.

PLOT FOR A NOVEL

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nineteen years of age and am engaged to a very nice boy of twenty. He is an orphan and has had a very hard life since he was a small child. I have met the relations who brought him up and they seem to be people of almost no refinement and yet my fiance is as intelligent and gentlemanly as though he had the finest of parents. To me he seems wonderful. He has had a few music lessons and plays beautifully. He plays a great deal in public and earns his living that way. It is said that he has a great future musically. He has living with him at his boarding

HOW WILL POP DODGE THIS ONE?

LOMITA NOTES

Miss Frances Jordan of West Palm street spent Sunday with Miss Opal Edwards.

Will McCart of San Diego was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hanson of Weston street.

Leo Silverthorn, greatly improved in health, has returned to his home on 25th street, after a six-months stay at Yuma, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mulder and family were entertained Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. John Bloom of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Adamson of Rose street entertained Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson and Capt. and Mrs. David Adamson at cards Monday evening.

James Wilkinson and son George, of Orange street, spent Saturday in San Pedro.

Guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. George Pilford of Redondo boulevard were Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Granzer, Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Morgan, of Los Angeles; Mrs. E. O'Day, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lillard, of San Pedro; Mrs. Mary Johnson, of Santa Monica; and Mrs. Lena Dudley, of Calexico, a house guest.

house three little orphan children. One is a very rough and bad little boy. My fiance does not correct them nor try to train them except to occasionally tell them he wants them to try to do better. Of course this does no good and the little boy swears and is perfectly terrible. We want very much to be married soon, but he insists on keeping the children, which is a great financial burden. I do not believe we could be happy under these conditions. He has supported these children for some time and loves them very much. Do you think I should ask him to give them up, or should we marry and try to keep them? We could never have things that we could afford if it were not for them.

THANK YOU.

Work such as your fiance is doing for the orphans means too much to him to ask him to give it up. Unless you love him enough to co-operate with him in his good work, I would not advise you to marry him. He is a philanthropist at heart and will always consider others before he will realize there are needs at home. I would advise you to postpone your marriage until you are more sure that your love is secure and that you will grow together instead of apart. I imagine that after a year of marriage the man you now love and consider noble would irritate you beyond endurance because of his impracticability.

Happy New Year.

Light Carnival At Redondo on Saturday Night

Ornamental System Will Be Turned on During Pageant

With appropriate ceremony the completed ornamental lighting system of Redondo Beach will be brought into use on Saturday night, Jan. 2. There are seven miles of streets to be lighted up by one of the best and most comprehensive street lighting plans to be found in any of the smaller cities of Southern California.

The carnival spirit will be dominant in the evening. A huge parade has been organized. There will be more than 50 floats, scores of decorated machines, bands, clowns, calliope, maskers, and all that goes to make up a carnival in a shore resort.

During the afternoon, machines of local citizens will convey visitors to nearby points of interest. At 7 o'clock there will be formal presentation of the keys of the city, with a brief address by the mayor, and it is expected that a well known film star will accept the huge key. The street parade will be over the thoroughfares, be lighted up. Electrical floats, automobiles covered with flowers, and bands in decorated trucks will be in the line of march.

Following the parade there will be street dancing, a carnival of maskers, confetti throwing, and general frivolity.

Derrick Co. Sales Mgr. Transferred

Herbert Knecht, sales manager of the International Derrick and Equipment Company, has accepted a transfer to the home office in Columbus, O.

Mr. Knecht left for Columbus last Sunday, and Mrs. Knecht and son will follow, after a two-weeks visit with friends in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Knecht have been in Torrance only a short time, but have made many friends who regret their leaving.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Curry of 257th street spent Sunday in Long Beach.

Guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robinson of Cypress street were Mr. and Mrs. James Burke of Inglewood, Mr. and Mrs. George Morrow of San Pedro, and Miss Babcock of Long Beach.

Miss Thelma Huffman of Los Angeles, Mrs. Mary Murray of Black River Falls, Wis., and Mrs. Emma Brown of the Boys' Academy of Long Beach were visitors Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Randles of Pennsylvania avenue.

MAY THE NEW YEAR BRING TO YOU ITS FULLEST MEASURE OF PROSPERITY!

And Please Accept Our Sincere Thanks for your patronage during the past year. We shall strive anew to merit your business in 1926.
